

The Spanish golfing world is buzzing with the exciting news that the Volvo World Match Play Championships are coming to Spain in Autumn 2009!

The World Match Play Championships are leaving their ancestral home of Wentworth near London for sunnier climes in the Mediterranean, Finca Cortesin, just outside Marbella to be precise. This Championship which has been played for over 44 years is considered to be one of the most prestigious competitions within the golfing world attracting the top 16 players and household names such as Tiger Woods, Ernie Els, Michael Campbell and Phil Mickelson.

The relocation of the competition to Finca Cortesin which only opened in 2007 is a great achievement for the Spanish golfing industry and the local community. Finca Cortesin which is owned by developers Singlehome is one of the most elegant and prestigious locations on the Costa del Sol. This new urbanisation has always set out to rival the famous Valderrama course in Sotogrande which is currently home to the Volvo Masters.

Alanda Cortesin is set within the Finca Cortesin development, and has prime views out over the golf course and down to the club house where all the action will be taking place. There are just 45 units in this unique boutique development, and with Phase one already completed in construction it will be the ideal location from which to enjoy this golfing event.

Imagine following the world's greatest golfers on the course and then back to the club house for a refreshing drink before heading home to your front line golf home, have a dip in the pool and then watch the highlights on Sky Sports before getting ready for the next day's action!

The development will be firmly placed on the map as a location of prestige and golfing interest over the next three years, in fact making Golfing History! Alanda Homes are proud to be part of that golfing history as Desmond O'Connor MD of the Alanda Group says 'the magnitude of this event can not be ignored, and it shows that Andalucía is firmly committed to becoming a global player as host of major golfing events. Our infrastructure, hospitality and quality of golf courses have proven that we can too can compete with any of the other great locations, in Ireland, Scotland, Dubai and the USA. This event will be the awaking of Finca Cortesin and in turn a stamp of approval for Alanda Cortesin as a superb choice of location and lifestyle'.
